Dear Gerry, 4/12/96

I'm sorry Hanh Trang found it necessary to resign. I'm sure there is need for the care she provided, something not a factor to her new boss.

But at least she'll be free for the trip that surely means much to her.

I hope you find Hosty's Pudding worth the time. Bill Has a disk of it.

Earlier this week, after being discharged by the hospital Sunday, I completed the draft of Picturing Corruption of the JFK Assassination, on Groden'a two monstrosities.

I've read and marked up the La Fontaines' Oswald Talked, which he didn't. I hope I feel up to getting onto it as soon. Right now I'm rather tired. It is a terrible book that has nothing at all to do with the assassination.

I hope to have soon what I've added to Waketh. The daughter of a California friend is to retype those chapters but she is learning a new computer that has ome bugs in it.

We have finally gotten a break in the weather that I'd looked forward to and that I'd hoped would let me walk some in the lane. But I feel too weak to do any walking today.

Pur best to ypu all,

Harold
